

Cultivating an Ecological Conscience,	Frederick L. Kirschenmann	a thoughtful and intelligent look at the problems facing agriculture today and what must be done to solve them.
Bringing It To the Table: On Farming and Food,	Wendell Barry	one of the early writers warning about the dangers of our industrial food system and encouraging the use of traditional practices to counteract the system
Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Food Rights: The Escalating Battle Over Who Decides What We Eat	David E. Gumpert	chronicles various efforts of activists fighting for the right of people to choose what foods they eat and buy from farmers who are responsibly producing that food, without government interference.
The Sheer Ecstasy of Being a Lunatic Farmer	Joel Salatin	an evangelical call for holistic, ecological grass-farming and direct exchanges of food with customers without governmental agency interference.
The Corporate Transformation of Health Care.	J. Warren Salmon,	It gives a background to the corporatization of medicine and the impacts of that phenomena on health-care institutions.
The Corporate Transformation of Health Care,	John P. Geyman	looks at how the incentives and maxims of the corporate system cause the soaring cost of health care from hospitals to drugs and insurance.
One Nation Uninsured: Why the US Has No National Health Care System.	Jill Quadagno	reveals the influence of corporations and other stakeholders in the formation of our failing system. National Health Insurance is at the center of her solution and she suggests a model of political organization that could establish a truly popularly-based medical system in this country.
Living Downstream: An Ecologist Looks at Cancer and the Environment	Sandra Steingraber	documents the corporate poisons that are spreading across the planet and the failures of the regulatory system to guarantee an environment that is healthy and safe from such pollutants.
Exposed: The Toxic Chemistry of Everyday Products and What's at Stake for American Power	Mark Shapiro	an explanation of why corporate toxins are allowed in this country and not in Europe where a new world of environmental regulation is being created.