

Books on Global Corporatization

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| When Corporations Rule the World. | David Korten | Shows by example how corporate imperatives shape American life and the lives of billions abroad. |
| The Case Against the Global Economy, And For a Return to the Local | edited by Jerry Mander and Edward Goldsmith. | Satsh Kumar on Gandhi's economic vision, are a must-read for every localizer; and Richard Barnett and John Cavanagh write on the "Casino Economy," where, enabled by electronic currency, money laundering is a specialty of the house. |
| America as Empire. | James Garrison | Weaving histories from Sumerian to American, Garrison delivers a string of mediations on empire that produce many lucid passages like the following: "the tragedy of empire is that in gaining it, democracy and the quest for social equity are often the first casualties. Power and freedom are invariably at odds with one another. |
| Creating a World that Works for All | Sharif Abdullah | Turns dire prognoses on their heads: "Our problems, like those of the falling baby chick, are so overwhelming that we are forced to find a new way of acting, to spread wings we didn't know we had." |
| Globalization from Below | Jeremy Brecher, Tim Costello and Brendan Smith | A nuanced, action-oriented discussion focusing on the complexities of building a diverse progressive grassroots movement |
| Globalize Liberation, | edited by David Solnit | An excellent source for broadening one's vision of what a future without a Caesar can look like |
| The Global Class War: How America's Bipartisan Elite Lost Our Future - and What It Will Take to Win It Back | Jeff Faux | A convincing argument of why the global corporate neoliberal strategy is not good for America and not good for the World. |
| The Making of a Transnational Capitalist Class: Corporate Power in the 21st Century | William K. Carroll | Looks at the formation of the global elite from interlocking directorates to their participation in neoliberal corporate policy-making groups including the World Economic Forum and the International Chamber of Commerce. |
| Superclass: The Global Power Elite and the World They are Making. | David Rothkopf | Takes the reader inside the world of the global elite and points out that, "Of all the powers the superclass possesses, one of the most important is the ability to set agendas for the rest of us |
| Another World is Possible: Popular Alternatives to Globalization at the World Social Forum | William Fisher and Thomas Ponniah | Includes the whole array of the global civil society that comes together to present actions and ideas for creating a world not dominated by corporate money and ideology. |
| Social Solidarity Economy: A Response to International Challenges | International Forum of Social Solidarity Entrepreneurs. | A collection of articles outlining how the Social Solidarity Economy can alleviate the crisis brought on by neoliberal corporate globalization |

| | | | |
|---------------------------------------|--|------|---|
| Confessions of An Economic Hit Man | by John Perkins | 2004 | policies and lead to a new world that is empowering, democratic, and committed to social and environmental justice. |
| Imperial Overstretch | Roger Burbach and Jim Tarbell | 2004 | The origins of the Global Corporate Empire and the popular pushback against it. |
| The Real Wealth of Nations | Rieane Eisler | 2007 | A call to move from the dominator society to the Partnreship society. |